On child safety

Safety Precautions for Children

Accidents are a major cause of death among school age children. Car-pedestrian accidents, drowning, fire related mishaps and firearm accidents are four major death causing misfortunes among young children.

Among children, ages 5 to 14, accidents are responsible for more than half the deaths of boys and two-fifths of girls' deaths, though the death rate from injuries in accidents has declined in recent years.

Children, as well as adults, should be aware of safety precautions and learn to follow them as a matter of daily habit.

Motor Vehicle accidents rank highest among accidental deaths for boys and girls. Pedestrian fatalities account for one in every two deaths, in car accidents, involving children, ages 5 to 9, and one out of four at ages 10 to 14. Most pedestrian fatalities occur when children are playing in or crossing the street. Some precautions to help prevent car-pedestrian accidents are:

--Help children watch for cars when crossing the street.

--Teach children to ride bikes safely (small children should have constant supervision when riding bikes in a street or traffic area.

--Find areas away from streets for children to play.

Drowning ranks second among boys and third among girls as types of accidental deaths. To reduce the chances of children drowning, I urge you parents to:

--Have children take swimming lessons, both for pleasure and protection.

--Have an adult swimmer or lifeguard watch children when swimming (Parents, children should always be supervised, even in your back yard in a small kiddie pool.)

--Make sure safety float lines or rescue rings are readily available when swimming.

Fire and fire related accidents ranked second among accidental deaths for girls and third for boys. Careless smoking and children playing with matches and lighters are the major causes of one out of every five fires. To prevent fires from occurring, children should:

--Know that matches and lighters are not toys.

--Learn what should be done in case a fire occurs.

--Never be left alone in a house if they are very young. Young children need constant supervision.

In addition, adults need to make sure fire hazard articles are out of the sight and reach of children. Young parents, grandparents and others who have children around visiting them frequently need to be certain their home is childproof when it comes to fire hazardous materials.

Accidents involving firearms are another major cause of death in school age children. Firearm accidents appear more frequently among boys than girls. In addition, a large percentage of fire arm deaths occur in the home instead of outside. Consequently, to prevent accidents with guns from occurring in the home, it is suggested that:

--If firearms must be kept in the house, they should be unloaded at all times.

--Ammunition should be locked in a different place from the guns.

--Children should not be allowed to handle guns until they receive proper training.

In order to prevent possible accidents from occurring, parents should take the precautions listed above seriously and teach their children to become aware of making safety a daily habit.

At Hixburg

'Country Store' to be opened

The Hixburg Country Store, located on the farm of John and William Hix, in Husburg, has not been used as a store for many years. However, the Appomattox Extension Homemakers plan to 'bring it alive' on Saturday, July 17.

On that day, the Sixth Annual Virginia Farm Management Tour will be visiting six farms in Appomattox County. The Hix farm is one of the farms included in the tour.

The Appomattox Extension Homemakers are sponsoring an Arts and Crafts Sale in the Hixburg Store from 8:30 a.m. - 4:00 p.m., July 17. Also the following demonstrations will be in progress during the day:

Diane Fields from Pelham, N.C. will be spinning, weaving, and dyeing yarn. Miss Fields owns the Picnic Farm Wools in North Carolina. She grows the animals for the wool and dyes it with dyes from vegetables she grows.

Dan Boyer, from Richmond - will demonstrate the art of Stained Glass.

Irene Mays - will be weaving seats into old chairs.

Debbie Powell and Carol Bradley - will be making Pottery - from start to finish.

The bees, belonging to Gilbert and Irene Mays will be there 'doing their thing'. Honey will be on sale.

The Appomattox National Historical Park has recently published a cook book, giving the secret to some of the best eating in Appomattox. These will be on sale. There will also be Old Virginia cookbooks and Christmas in Appomattox cookbooks and flavoring for sale. Quilts will be on display and for sale, also many other arts and crafts of various kinds.

If you live in Appomattox County and would like to sell your homemade 'Wares', this is a good opportunity. For further information, you may call Katie Martin - 352-5316 or Margaret Ferguson - 993-2877.

This promises to be a real 'fun day'. Everyone is invited to come to Hixburg on Saturday, July 17, 8:30 a.m.-4:00 p.m. and browse, buy, or just enjoy visiting with us.
